

THE THIRD LETTER.

Mr. Reid Accepts the Nomination for Vice President.

A VERY LENGTHY DOCUMENT.

It is Addressed to Hon. W. T. Durbin, Anderson, Ind., and is Dated Ophir Farm, N. Y., October 18, 1892.—The Tariff Question the Chief Subject of the Letter.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Hon. Whitelaw Reid's letter accepting the Republican nomination for vice president, was made public last night. It is addressed to Hon. W. T. Durbin, Anderson, Ind., and is dated Ophir Farm, N. Y., Oct. 18, 1892. In it Mr. Reid says:

When the nomination with which the national convention had honored me was formally announced by your committee, I accepted it at once. In doing so I accepted also the principles set forth in the resolutions adopted by the convention as the basis of the appeal to the popular suffrage. There will be no misunderstanding as to the purposes of the Republican party in this contest, and no doubt as to the attitude of its candidates. What it intends it has set forth in language that cannot be mistaken; and they will strive by all the lawful means in their power to enforce its plainly expressed will.

The party platform—so-called—are more important this year than usual. Both the leading candidates have once commanded the approval of the American people in its highest form of expression. Attention is therefore concentrated less on the men themselves and more on the principles each is put forward to represent, and would, in case of election, be required to carry out. It is obvious that the really vital issues which this year divide parties, and demand a popular decision are those relating to the tariff and currency. Fortunately, both sides have stated their positions on these subjects with directness, simplicity and frankness.

We favor a protective tariff and when in full power made the present one. Our opponents favor a tariff for revenue only, and promise the repeal of the present one. We maintain that the tariff should cover the difference in the cost of the home and foreign product, caused by the difference in the home and foreign wages for the labor employed upon it. Our opponents distinctly repudiated the proposition that American wages should be considered in the matter and declared instead that a tariff levied for anything but revenue only, was unconstitutional. We maintain that the present tariff has worked well; that it has developed American manufactures; steadied and increased American wages and promoted the general prosperity. Our opponents deny that there has been any increase of prosperity under the present tariff; declare that wages have been reduced and denounce the Republican policy which, as they say, fosters no other industry so much as that of the sheriff.

We favor the system by which, when we think the country ready for the reduction or abolition of duties, we insist upon getting corresponding and reciprocal advantages from foreign countries as the condition of their enjoying these advantages in our own market. Our opponents denounce this reciprocity as a sham; and, therefore, inferentially pledge themselves to its repeal. The sharp issues thus presented for the decision of the American people, cover more comprehensively and more specifically than ever before the whole range of considerations relating to a protective tariff, its constitutionality, its expediency, its relation to wages, its practical workings and the question whether, as it is from time to time reduced, we should throw away the advantages thus extended to foreign nations or should get something in return for them.

Mr. Reid then goes on to say that the constitutionality of a protective tariff has heretofore been thought established, and notes that a tariff bill avowedly for "the encouragement and protection of manufactures," was carried through the first congress. He also quotes from a message to congress of Andrew Jackson, on which the constitutionality of the protective system is maintained, and coming down to the present time, adds the opinion of the Hon. George Ticknor Curtis on the same question.

Speaking of the expediency of a protective tariff, Mr. Reid says:

It has been vindicated by the experience of the last thirty years, the most wonderful period of financial success over unhealed difficulties in the record of modern civilization. Under it and by its aid the Republican management of our finances has resulted in the largest payment of a national debt in the shortest time known to history and in the simultaneous development of the industries of the country and the prosperity of the people on a scale without a parallel.

The true valuation of American property in the United States has increased from $14,000,000,000 in 1860 to $58,000,000,000 in 1890, making a total increase in the thirty years of Republican rule and a Republican protective tariff of $44,000,000,000 against the $14,000,000,000 earned in the previous 250 years. Our opponents join issue with us directly and positively on the effects of the present tariff. They deny that there has been any increase of prosperity under it, declare that wages have been reduced and denounce our policy, saying with a sneer that it fosters no industry so much as that of the sheriff.

It has been a fortunate circumstance for the impartial public, which desires above all to ascertain the exact facts concerning such an assertion, that in the regular course of their official duty a number of Democratic officers have since been required to report the statistics in their several departments bearing upon this subject. Such reports have been made, successively by the commissioner of labor statistics, the bank commissioner and the board of equalization of the state of New York, by the chairman of the savings bank commission and by the chief of the bureau of labor statistics of New Jersey and by others.

All these reports tend to show an increase during the year 1891, under the present tariff, in wages, in the value of products, in the deposits in savings banks or in building and loan associations, and in the value of real and personal property as fixed for purposes, not of speculation, but of taxation.

Coming down to the question of reciprocity, Mr. Reid goes on to show the benefits derived from that policy. He says:

The Democrats have designated reciprocity as a sham. At the close of the fiscal year in June last, it had been in operation but a few months, and under all the disadvantages attending the opening of new lines of trade in foreign countries. Yet, even then, it had increased our trade with the foreign countries to which it had been applied nearly one-fourth. The exact increase was 23.78 per cent. Since then there has been a still greater increase, amounting on Sept. 1, the latest date to which the official statistics are yet available, of 23.6 per cent.

It is obvious that the new trade thus opened, particularly with our neighbors in Central and South America, is sure of a wide and far reaching development. This trade lies at our doors, and is with people naturally inclined to friendly commercial relations with us through kindred interests and political aspirations. It involves largely the exchange of products peculiar to each country and needed by the other; it opens new markets for our cereals and vast fields for the use of our machinery and manufactures, and it must naturally bring with it also an annual increase of miscellaneous business between us and them outside the articles directly affected by the treaties. To abandon this system, which is absolutely equitable to both sides, which costs us nothing, and which brings such results, would be madness, while to denounce it as a sham is as unpatriotic as it is untruthful.

On the subject of the currency the issue between the Republican party and its opponents is almost as sharply defined as on the tariff. We demand that every dollar, paper, silver or gold, shall be made and kept as good as any other dollar. Our opponents, while professing the same desire, demand that the national bank currency shall be broken down by the repeal of the 10 per cent. tax on the issues of state banks. The proposal of our opponents is to sectionalize it again and thus return to the state bank system under which it was rarely equal to coin, was often at a ruinous discount and often worthless.

It is true that the gradual payment of the government bonds may require some change in the securities demanded as a guarantee for the national bank notes. The and party which devised the system made it a magnificent success may be relied upon to meet that emergency when it arises; and the one party that assuredly could not be relied upon in the matter is the party which has now formally proposed as its remedy for the difficulty, a return to the semi-barbarous condition of the heterogeneous state bank issues before the war.

There is good reason to hope for some practical union of effort for a common solution of the silver problem, with an increased use of silver, through the renewed international silver conference, which the wise policy of the present administration has secured from the leading commercial nations of the world. It is a statement which no candidate and competent business authority, whatever his political tendencies, can deny that the adoption now of the policy avowed by our opponents in their declaration of principles, as to the repeal of the present tariff, the passage of a tariff for revenue only and the substitution of state bank for national currency, would give an immediate and disastrous shock to business.

But we are some times told that they do not mean what they say. If so, could the people wisely intrust power to a party which does not mean to keep its promises, and appeals for popular support with an admitted lie upon its lips. At other times we are told that their candidate neither believes their platform nor would dream of carrying it out, and that, therefore, there is no danger. We put no such aspersion upon their candidate. To hold the nomination under such circumstances would be an act not only of treachery to the party whose standard he bears, but of folly besides—since the country could not help seeing that an effort was in progress to deceive it as to either the policy of the party or the purpose of the candidate.

Furthermore, the duty of carrying out the plain purpose decided by an overwhelming majority in the highest Democratic tribunal, would devolve, not upon the president, but upon the congress to be elected by this party, which promises the repeal of the present tariff, which demands a tariff for revenue only, and pronounces any other unconstitutional, and proposes to abandon the national bank currency in favor of that issued by state banks. The danger has never before been so great.

The Democratic party has often threatened the peace or the prosperity of the country, but within the memory of this generation it has never had the power to carry out its purposes. When it had a president, he was held in check by a Republican congress, and when a Democratic house of representatives was elected, it was still held in check by a Republican senate. Not for one hour since March, 1859, has the Democratic party had power to control the legislation and direct the policy of the United States government.

But the present political situation makes it plain to every observer that a Democratic victory in the states which they must now carry in order to elect a president would also insure them enough new senators to reverse the present slender majority in the United States senate. If they elect a president this time they will clearly have both the house and the senate, too; and will thus be placed in absolute control for the first time since 1859, with nothing to prevent their carrying out the threats they have made against both the present tariff and the present currency.

It is as idle, therefore, as it is slanderous to say that there is no danger from the triumph of our opponents, since their candidate will refuse to carry out their principles. He could not with credit, and he could not anyway, because the power would rest, not with him, but with congress.

Mr. Reid, speaking of the alleged force bill, says:

This bill scarcely calls for notice. The very title of the bill proclaims its object to be to prevent the use of force at elections; it failed anyway, and the southern white men who were lately its chief, as they were its most interested, opponents now begin to wish it revived to protect them from being themselves counted out of elections they have fairly won—as the otherday in Alabama—by their own white fellow Democrats.

It is well, however, to say that the denunciation in the Democratic platform of the principle that the federal government may supervise the election of federal officers is grotesque. That principle has been long recognized and it has been sustained by the courts; it now stands undisputed on the statute books, and it was enforced at recent elections by Grover Cleveland, then president of the United States, through his order of Oct. 5, 1886, to Mr. Garland, his attorney general. But it is not to be disguised that the recent clamor against this principle, if it means anything, means a purpose to nullify the fourteenth and fifteenth articles of the constitution of the United States.

Mr. Reid next refers to the revival of American shipping and repeats his adhesion to the resolutions of the Republican national convention as a whole. Of the shipping question he says:

The Republican party has taken successful steps to this end; and the resolutions of its convention only confirm its devotion to a principle on which its practice has already been wise and eminent. The Democratic resolutions say nothing on the subject and it is fair to say that the Democratic party takes no interest in it.

In closing he pays a high tribute to the administration of president Harrison. He says:

The administration of President Harrison has been generally recognized as honest, able and safe. Considering the number of important subjects, of both foreign and domestic policy, it has been compelled to deal with, and the satisfaction that has attended the results, it may indeed be pronounced brilliantly successful. Abroad it has adjusted difficult questions with consideration for weak nations and with courteous but resolute firmness to the most powerful. It has protected the honor of our flag and the rights of our citizens. Has preserved the peace, and secured the further application of its principle of international arbitration; has removed long standing prohibitions on unjust charges of unhealthfulness against our food products; has opened new markets with our neighbors and promoted a closer intercourse. At home it has reformed a portion of the remaining debt at the lowest rate ever commanded by any nation in the civilized world; has largely strengthened and improved our navy; has greatly enlarged the free list at our custom houses, and remitted over one hundred millions of duties on a single article in admitting sugar free.

Not to enumerate further, it may be fairly said that the present condition of the country and the general public confidence in the administration, combine to form the strongest protest against subjecting the people to the shock and needless risk inevitable in such a change. A sudden reversal of policy is not what either the suggestions of ordinary business prudence, or the obvious and general contentment of the people call for.

I believe your declaration of principles and your renomination of a prudent, spotless and successful president will command the popular approval at the polls, and will, under God, insure to the continued benefit of our country. Very respectfully yours, WHITE LAURENCE REID.

Wealthy Farmer Disappears.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 19.—The mysterious disappearance of Matthew Barton, a wealthy farmer, near Lindon, is causing much talk. Barton came to Crawfordsville last Friday, put up his tent and made some purchases. About 5 o'clock that evening he was seen near the Big Four station, since which time nothing has been heard of him. He was a sober and respected citizen, and it is feared he has met with foul play. Mr. Barton is a son-in-law of James Vail, one of the most prominent men in the county.

Dashed to Death.

DETROIT, Oct. 19.—A special to The News from Bessemer, Mich., says: By the giving way at the Colby mine yesterday morning, when the day shift was going down, the cage containing ten men dashed down over 700 feet to the bottom. One man was instantly killed and the balance all had legs broken. One had a hip smashed and several were injured internally. Four will die. They were using a patent cage, provided with safety catches, which refused to work when needed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—During a glove fight yesterday in the room of the P. Garrison association, William Neary, aged twenty-six, of 140 West Fifty-third street, was knocked out by John McGarry, of 706 Ninth avenue. A doctor was called, but he was unable to restore Neary to consciousness, and he was carried home, where he died in the afternoon. McGarry was arrested.

ONE FOR BOSTON.

First Game That Counts of the World's Championship Base Ball.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 19.—Two errors yesterday by two of the Cleveland players and Duffy's long hits won the game for Boston by a score of 4 to 3. Cleveland batted better than the Bostonians, although it secured no more hits. The local team were very unlucky in sending the ball time and again directly into some fielder's waiting hands. Clarkson was hit hard in two innings only and pitched splendid ball. He made one of the great stops seen on any ball field, but Virtue let the ball get away from him on Clarkson's throw and subsequently the man who got the benefit of the error brought his run in.

The game in no way demonstrated the superiority of either team over the other. If it did anything at all, it confirmed the impression that the clubs are two of the most evenly matched that ever came together. The attendance was 7,500 and the day perfect for ball playing.

Boston got its first run in the first inning on singles by Long and McCarthy and Duffy's long fly to McAleer. In the third inning, Long got to first on Virtue's miff of a thrown ball, and reached home after Duffy's three base hit. Zimmer's single, Clarkson's double and Burkett's fly to Lowe gave Cleveland its first run.

In the next inning the local team scored again on McKean's single, Virtue's sacrifice and a hot hit to left field by McAleer. The score was now a tie, but in the fifth Boston forged ahead again on Tebeau's fumble of McCarthy's hot grounder and a two-base hit by Duffy that banged up against the left field fence. One more run was added to the Boston score in the eighth inning on a three-base hit to right field by Duffy and Nash's line single in the same direction.

In the ninth it looked at one time as though Cleveland would surely tie the score. The first play was a sensational catch by Duffy of Virtue's line hit. Then Duffy muffed McAleer's fly and threw the batter out at second on a close decision. O'Connor hit safely over second and Zimmer followed with a tremendous drive to left field fence for three bases that scored O'Connor. Staley fumbled Clarkson's hit but Long got the ball and threw the batter out.

Seven thousand dollars' worth of jewelry was recovered from a pawn shop. They were unable to find the necessary bonds and were locked up. The woman claims to be highly connected.

Jim Hall Wants to Fight Fitzsimmons.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19.—A cablegram was received yesterday from London addressed to the Olympic club announcing Jim Hall's willingness to fight Fitzsimmons before the club, but declaring that Hall will not fight before March. The Olympic club suggested Feb. 1, but it is not unlikely that an agreement will be reached as to the date of the fight that will be satisfactory to all parties. The purse offered is $15,000.

Injured in a Mine.

BRAZIL, Ind., Oct. 19.—A miner named Patrick Burns, twenty-six years old, unmarried, was probably fatally injured in the Schrepper main mine, south of this city, yesterday. He attempted to board the cage as it was started up, but slipped, and his body was caught between the cage and the side timbers and was horribly crushed. Burn's home is in Ohio.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

Great Destruction Done at Different Places.

FOREST FIRES IN DELAWARE.

Six Farm Houses Burned and Hundreds of Acres of Land Have Been Burned Over—An Ohio Town Threatened—Chicago Hotel Burned.

FRANKFORD, Del., Oct. 19.—The immense fires which started east of here on Sunday are increasing and hundreds of acres of land have been burned over. Six farm houses were destroyed yesterday. In many localities the people are fighting the flames night and day.

It is feared that the fires will interfere with the running of trains on the Delaware, Maryland and Virginia railroad as the signals can not be seen one hundred yards distant so dense is the smoke. Railroad employees are guarding the telegraph poles to prevent them from catching fire and thus interrupting telegraphic communication. Old residents say the fires are the greatest that have occurred since 1840.

An Ohio Town Threatened.

ASHLAND, Ky., Oct. 19.—A terrible forest fire, started by some youngsters playing in the woods, is raging on the hills surrounding Sheridan, Lawrence county, O., just across the river above this city. The old Sheridan coal works and the houses of the entire town, with a population of 600, are threatened with total destruction, the dryness of the forest rendering a successful fighting of the flames impossible. The sky is black with smoke and flying ashes, and several buildings with nearly all their contents have already burned.

A SUBURBAN HOLOCUST.

Chicago's Eaglewood Visited by a Disastrous Fire.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Dwellings and stores, fifteen buildings in all, were burned and two lives lost in Eaglewood. The loss is $80,000.

The fire started at Wright and Sixty-third streets in a bakery. While in a hysterical condition Mrs. W. Butler, one of the victims, though not really in danger, jumped from a third-story window of the Hotel Kent and, striking her head, was instantly killed.

Another unfortunate was an employee in the bakery, John Howard, who was roasted to death. A woman and child seen at a window in one of the burning structures had not been accounted for after the fire and may have perished.

The financial loss, though large in the aggregate, was distributed among nearly three dozen persons, chiefly small householders and shopkeepers.

Hotel and Dwellings Burned.

PLAIN CITY, O., Oct. 19.—Fire broke out in Sherwood's hotel shortly after noon yesterday and destroyed that structure, together with three dwellings. Henry Kahler was probably fatally injured by falling walls. Loss about $15,000.

DASTARDLY CRIME.

A Farmer Killed and His Body Burned in His Own Barn.

ST. MARY'S, O., Oct. 19.—North Star, a remote village in Darke county, is torn up over a dastardly crime committed Monday night. Henry Maertz, a prominent farmer, was supposedly murdered, then burned up in his barn, which was destroyed by fire, the charred remains being found yesterday morning.

It is said that he belonged to a band of grain thieves, composed of farmers in that section, who had failed to arrive at a satisfactory understanding with him concerning the disposal of their plunder. Maertz informed them he would squeal on them, which perhaps led to the commission of the crime. Several farmers are missing.

Swallowed a Spider.

MOUNT HEALTHY, O., Oct. 19.—Mrs. Hannah Benver had a strange experience the other day which she does not wish to occur again. While drinking a cup of coffee at dinner she felt something run down over her nose. It fell into her coffee and went down her throat. Mrs. Benver became deathly sick and vomited frequently and finally landed a spider. She has been very ill for the last three days.

Bunkoer Suicides.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 19.—John Ezra committed suicide yesterday by taking poison. He was arrested several weeks ago for bunkoing a farmer out of $10, and he has been despondent ever since. This is supposed to be the cause of his deed. He leaves a wife and family.

Eloped with a Widow.

FOSTORIA, O., Oct. 19.—Henry Neff, ex-city marshal and a prominent G. A. R. man, is reported to have deserted his wife and eloped with a widow named Mary Phillips, living in the western part of the city. The whereabouts of the guilty pair are not known.

CORPORAL TANNER is another G. A. R. veteran who is not doing any shouting for Harrison in this campaign. He is quoted as saying that Cleveland will carry New York by at least 15,000 majority, and that he will also carry Indiana by a safe majority. The Corporal laughs at the claim of the administration that Harrison will get all the soldier vote.

The Supreme Court of the United States says the Democratic law in Michigan to choose Presidential electors by districts is constitutional. President Harrison in one of his messages, we believe, characterized the law as revolutionary, but the Supreme Court tells him he doesn't know anything about it. And a majority of the Justices are Republicans too.

The New York World's Western Campaign Fund is complete. It amounts to $34,000 in round numbers, and is the largest ever raised by popular subscription. The World announces that after the election a complete account in detail of the way in which this fund is expended will be publicly rendered. There is nothing to be disguised or covered up. Hurrah for the World.

The warbling of the catbirds, Miss Hirschhorn, the songs and dances of Miss Wilson, the evolutions of the elastic man, the rock-breaking of the modern Hercules and the sweet music of the zither, the camp meeting melodies and clog dancing of Sam Wilson and George Fitzgerald set 'em wild. The troupe is now in Flemingsburg.

Miss Newell excels instrumentally, and Mrs. Gerbrich, nee Lorena Lurley, is a fine soprano, playing her own accompaniment. The hostess was highly entertained by her musical friends. The Fletcher cabinet grand piano was used, and its tone and power were much complimented.

The Directors of Shannon and Forman Chapel Turnpike Company had two distinguished visitors last Friday—Judge Emory Whitaker and A. M. J. Cochran, Esq. The visitors found contractors and hands all busy, and were struck with the necessity as well as the importance of the new road. The large pools being blown out when finished and filled with water will more than compensate the farmers along the line for present trouble and inconvenience. This is an essential link connecting the Sardis pike with the Fleming line, and thence with the great Maysville and Lexington thoroughfare, should the Fleming farmers carry out their proposed plans. Judge Whitaker said 20,000 people were interested in the construction of this road, and he could not see why all parties along the line should not lend a helping hand and complete it before winter set in. Mason County is a large stockholder in this enterprise. Mr. Cochran made himself agreeable to all he met.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

Frank A. Mannen, an Ex-Maysvillian, Honored at West Superior, Wisconsin.

The Maysville man generally goes to the front, no matter where you place him.

In March, 1890, Mr. Frank A. Mannen located at West Superior, Wis. He was attracted there by its marvelous growth, and decided to cast his fortunes with the people of that city.

He engaged in the real estate business, and the result of his investments have demonstrated his shrewd business qualities.

The Democrats of West Superior have recognized his sterling qualities; at a convention held last week they nominated him for the office of County Treasurer of Douglas County. The fact that he received 31 of the 41 votes in the convention on the first ballot indicates that he is very popular with the Democrats of his adopted home.

Mr. Mannen is the oldest son of the late Captain Thomas A. Mannen, and is a Democrat from the ground up. He is capable and trustworthy in every sense of the word, and his many friends in Maysville wish him success in his present contest. The West Superior Call says the ticket is a winning one.

BE ON YOUR GUARD.

A Cincinnati Engraver Said to be Making Illegal Stencils for Use in This State.

It behooves every Democrat to be on his guard when he goes to vote in November, and see that his ballot marked with a cross like this X. The new law says that only a mark of this kind shall be used.

It has come to light recently that a Cincinnati engraver is now marking black ink stencils for use in making ballots at the election in this State that will contain a V instead of an X mark. A Kentucky official saw the stencil last week. There will undoubtedly be an attempt made in some districts to substitute the V stencil for the X.

All ballots marked otherwise than with the X mark will, of course, be thrown out, and Democrats should see that they use the proper kind of stencil. Speakers should impress this on the voters.

It would be a good idea for county authorities to secure the stencils in the election booths by means of small chains.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Legislative News.

In the House yesterday the Committee on Revenue and Taxation reported without expression of opinion the Revenue bill and its Senate amendments. There were forty-three amendments. Without the unnecessary delay of having them printed most of the amendments were accepted without debate.

One over which some little discussion was had was that relating to the assessment of distilled spirits. The assessment of this property is placed upon a board to be composed of the Auditor, Treasurer and Secretary of State.

The Corporation bill was reconsidered by the House and was passed by a vote of 57 to 3, thus saving it unless it is vetoed by the Governor, which is extremely probable, as the Senate passed the amended bill with a less number of votes than Governor Brown has construed to be legal. The Bank Inspector, in any event, will not be created by this Legislature.

The venerable Mrs. Ann W. Coburn was pleasantly entertained yesterday at the hospitable home of her niece, Mrs. H. O. Morgan, the occasion being the ninety-seventh anniversary of her birth. Those present were: Mrs. Ann W. Coburn and her daughter, Mrs. Eliza Richeson, Mrs. J. M. Evans, of Covington, Mrs. J. S. Chenoweth, of St. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. George Wood, of Washington, Mr. B. W. Wood and Mrs. J. M. Hunter, of Louisville, and Mrs. J. B. Poyntz, of this city.

THE bill board on Bridge street was discovered on fire yesterday afternoon, but was extinguished with a few buckets of water. It is thought the paper caught from sparks from a passing C. and O. train.

"SAVE me sixty bolts of that lovely embossed wall paper," exclaimed one of our prominent lady customers yesterday. "How can you afford to sell it so cheap," is remarked by all. J. T. Kackley & Co. are reducing stock now.
